Dealmaking in the Film and Television Industry From Negotiations Through Final Contracts
2nd Edition Expanded and Updated

Mark Litwak

Dealmaking is the first self-defense book for everyone working in the film and television industry. Addressing a general, non-attorney readership, it is a fascinating, highly accessible and practical guide to current entertainment laws peculiarities and “creative” practices. Armed with this book, filmmakers can save themselves thousands of dollars in legal fees as they navigate the entertainment business, shark-infested waters. Whether you are a professional or wannabe producer, writer, director, or actor, Litwak can help you make the most of your business dealings while steering you clear of contractual traps.

The Five C's of Cinematography
Motion Picture Filming Techniques

Joseph V. Mascelli

The Five C's of Cinematography is one of the three most important books on cinematic technique ever published.

—American Cinematographer

Mr. Mascelli provides the attentive reader with the equivalent of a complete course in filmmaking.—New York Times

The Five C's is the most widely respected book on cinematography ever published. With the aid of hundreds of photographs and diagrams, it clearly and concisely presents all of the essential concepts and techniques of motion picture camera work. Used copies of this timeless, long-out-of-print volume, which was first published in 1965, have been fetching hundreds of dollars per copy from students and teachers of cinematography and filmmaking. Now it is published for the first time in a paperback edition. The five C's, and some of the related subjects this book covers, are: Camera Angles—objective, subjective, point of view, subject size, subject angle, camera height; Continuity—cinematic time and space, filming action, master scenes, screen direction, transitional devices; Cutting—types of editing, cross-cutting, cutting on action; Close-ups—over-the-shoulder, cut-in, cutaway; Composition—compositional rules, compositional language, types of balance, attracting or switching the center of interest.
